

An Overview of News from PSP

As we are all aware, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Jeremy Hunt, recently delivered his 2022 Autumn Budget statement to parliament. This statement has created a climate in which consumers are considering about their own personal expenditure, and there has been little news on business support, but we hope to hear more about this from the UK government soon.

It is clear from our engagement with businesses across the country that additional support is needed for them to weather the current storm. The present climate is difficult and it is expected to be that way for the next 12 to 18 months.

We have very quickly become the go-to supplier for support solutions focused on reducing costs.

Over the coming months, we will continue to deliver crucial benefits, trusted advice and guidance to businesses nationally on key areas of relevance and concern.

Here is more on what the team has focused on in the last month.

- CEO, Rishi Sood.

With over 20 clinics already launched, we're excited to have several more launches under our belts in the last few weeks.

Our support extended to reviewing electricity and gas, telecoms, waste services, water and merchant services. We recently supported a night-time economy business that attended one of our clinics in making over £40,000 of savings on their business costs. Just one of the many success stories across the country through our interventions and BID support.

We are delighted to announce that we have recently launched programmes with:

Early savings and support delivered to Bristol Businesses

In October, we launched our Place Saving programme with Bristol City Centre BID and Redcliffe & Temple BID. Since then, we've identified over £50,000 worth of savings in the pipeline as we continue to engage members over the coming months.

Our recent support has already delivered benefits to businesses in the night-time economy, hospitality, and retail sectors on the procurement of new energy contracts that make them more carbon efficient and enables them to reduce their costs.

Talk to us about how you can support these sectors through our industry-leading place focused cost reduction programmes.

Providing support through Webinars

We are excited to announce that we have partnered with Warwickshire County Council to bring essential support and value to as many businesses as we can. We hope to accomplish this with our series of webinars which will be dedicated to highlighting the best practice on a range of critical business topics.

Our first webinar focused on delivering support to Retail, Hospitality, Leisure and Tourism businesses, sharing our expertise and knowledge of the energy market as well as how businesses can become more cost and carbon-efficient through better sustainable practices.

Throughout December and January, in partnership with London Borough of Sutton, we are launching a series of webinars focused on business efficiency and cost reduction. In this series of webinars, PSP will provide insight into how businesses can become more efficient in the following areas of energy, water, telecoms, merchant fees, and insurance.

GREEN ENTERPRISE PARTNERSHIP

The Green Enterprise Partnership

Led by the London Borough of Sutton and supported by Mayor of London's High Streets for All Challenge, Bioregional, and Successful Sutton BID, these organisations have joined forces to develop the Green Enterprise Partnership, an initiative that supports and upskills local businesses as they aim to decrease their environmental impact.

We were invited to attend a TED talk at the Sound Lounge, the country's first carbon neutral sound venue, where representatives were able to share their plans and ideas on how to support local Sutton businesses in reducing energy costs with better sustainable actions.

We are delighted to support the rollout of this campaign and have engaged with businesses to support them on their carbon neutral journey in the last couple of weeks.
